As a computer consultant, you are the trusted advisor of your customer's information technology needs. However, most computer consultants do not focus much attention on their client's print environment. They instead focus on "higher performing" activities like managing the network, servers and workstations.

Print related problems are often considered distractions that take IT professionals away from their main responsibilities.

This is why Choice 1 Printegrity has built a company that only focuses on business print output. We partner with computer consultants to give their client's a higher level of service and reduce costs in their print environment.

Choice 1 Printegrity now manages thousands of print devices. Become a partner and we will equip you with the expertise required to easily find needs in your client's environment.

Then we will do the heavy lifting - we will market, sell, configure, integrate, and implement our solution within your client. You will receive an ongoing revenue stream and the satisfaction of knowing you did the right thing for your customer.

Take some time to get to know Choice 1 Printegrity and you will find a partner you can trust with the clients you care about.
